COUNTRY INFORMATION

The British Virgin Islands (BVI) are a British Crown Colony boasting approximately 40 islands, which are situated in the Caribbean about 60 miles east of Puerto Rico. The principal island of the archipelago is Tortola, where the capital city of the BVI, Road Town, is located. Under the 1976 constitution, the BVI are independent from the UK, except with regards to its external affairs, defence, internal security, civil services, and court administration for which the UK keeps responsibility. The BVI are one of the oldest internationally recognised offshore centres. Many other offshore jurisdictions based themselves on the BVI's laws before developing their own corporate laws.

POLITICAL STRUCTURE

The British Virgin Islands operate as a parliamentary democracy. Ultimate executive authority in the BVI is vested in the Queen, and is exercised on her behalf by the Governor of the British Virgin Islands. The Governor is appointed by the Queen on the advice of the British Government. Defence and most Foreign Affairs remain the responsibility of the United Kingdom. The Head of Government under the constitution is the Premier, who is elected in a general election along with the other members of the ruling government as well as the members of the opposition. A Cabinet is nominated by the Premier and appointed and chaired by the Governor. The Legislature consists of the Queen (represented by the Governor) and a unicameral House of Assembly made up of 13 elected members plus the Speaker and the Attorney General.

ECONOMY

As an offshore financial centre, the BVI enjoys one of the more prosperous economies of the Caribbean region. The twin pillars of the economy are tourism and financial services, as tourism employs the greatest number of people within the Territory, while 51.8% of the Government's revenue comes directly from the financial services associated with the territory's status as an offshore financial centre. Agriculture and industry account for only a small proportion of the islands' GDP. The BVI's agricultural produce includes fruit, vegetables, sugar cane, livestock, and poultry, and industries include rum distillation, construction, and boat building. The official currency of the British Virgin Islands is the United States dollar (USD), the currency also used by the United States Virgin Islands.

POPULATION

As of the 2010 Census, the population of the British Virgin Islands was 28,054, of whom approximately 23,500 live on Tortola. The majority of the population (82%) of the BVI are Afro-Caribbean, however, the islands are also comprised of the following ethnicities: mixed (5.9%); white (6.8%), East Indian (3.0%). British Virgin Islanders are classed as British Overseas Territories citizens and since 2002 have had an entitlement to take up full UK citizenship. Although the territory is not part of the European Union and not directly subject to EU law, its citizens are deemed to be citizens of the EU as well.

LANGUAGE

The primary language of the British Virgin Islands is English, although a local dialect known as Virgin Islands Creole (or Virgin Islands Creole English) is spoken in the Virgin Islands and the nearby islands of Saba, Saint Martin and Sint Eustatius. Spanish is also spoken in the BVI by those of Puerto Rican and Dominican descent.
