COUNTRY INFORMATION

Belize was formerly called British Honduras and is an independent democratic Commonwealth country located on the Caribbean seaboard of Central America. Since independence from Britain in 1981, it has enjoyed a stable and democratic government. The administrative capital is Belmopan, but the major commercial centre is Belize City, which is located on the eastern coast close to the country's major international airport. The total population of Belize is around 340,000 of which some 60,000 live in Belize City. Belize is an internationally-recognised offshore centre and its main advantages are the speed with which it is possible to register a company (1-2 days) and the increased confidentiality that this country offers.

POLITICAL STRUCTURE

Belize is a parliamentary constitutional monarchy. The structure of government is based on the British parliamentary system, and the legal system is modelled on the common law of England. The head of state is Queen Elizabeth II, who holds the title Queen of Belize, however, she is represented in Belize by the Governor-General. The cabinet, led by the Prime Minister of Belize, who is head of government, acting as advisers to the Governor-General, in practice exercise executive authority. The bicameral National Assembly of Belize is composed of a House of Representatives and a Senate. The 31 members of the House are popularly elected to a maximum five-year term and introduce legislation affecting the development of Belize. The Governor-General appoints the 12 members of the Senate, with a Senate president selected by the members. Legislative power is vested in both the government and the Parliament of Belize.

ECONOMY

Belize has a small, mostly privatised enterprise economy that is based primarily on export of petroleum and crude oil, agriculture, agro-based industry, and merchandising, with tourism and construction recently assuming greater importance. The country is also a producer of industrial minerals. In agriculture, sugar remains the chief crop, accounting for nearly half of exports, while the banana industry is the population's largest employer.

POPULATION

Belize is the most sparsely populated nation in Central America. Larger than El Salvador, slightly more than half of the country's population live in rural areas. About one-fourth live in Belize City, the principal port, commercial centre, and former capital. Most Belizeans are of multiracial descent, with about 34% of the population being of mixed Maya and European descent (Mestizo), while 25% are Creoles (Kriols), 15% are Spanish, approximately 10.6% are Maya, and about 6.1% are Afro-Amerindian (Garifuna). The remaining population includes European, East Indian, Chinese, Middle Eastern, and North American groups.

LANGUAGE

As a former British colony, English is the official language of Belize. It is the primary language of public education, government, and most media outlets. The majority of Belizeans regardless of ethnicity speak an English-based creole called Belizean Creole (also known as Kriol) for most informal and social. Spanish is also widely spoken throughout the country.
